Good Friday Friends,

Once again, I pray that this week is finding all of you in good spirits and ready for Wednesday! Valentine's Day, the beginning of Lent, Ash Wednesday. Check out the news in the updates for a Linten Lectio.

We are so happy for Theresa Spear, her ordination is scheduled February 25, Congratulations!

Please continue your prayers for Paula Holiday and Jan Aerie.

Our next zoom gathering is February 24 that's a Saturday morning at 9:00 a.m. from the comfort of your home, work or wherever you would like. If you don't have the Just Women Bible Study Magazine, read the scripture and the questions, and you will be able to join us!

Our next Bible study is brought to us by Rev. Dr. Cristal L. Williams.

Scripture verse is from Numbers chapter 27:1-7 The title is The Daughters of Zelophehad Versus the People. Her questions for consideration:

- 1. What do you believe is the cost for women speaking out in the 21st century?
- 2. What would it take for you to be a conduit of change?
- 3. Is there a gift in this story for you? What is it?
- 4. Who are the women in your life, church, circle that have used their voices to bring hope, change, and inspiration?
- 5. What makes you uncomfortable about the story?
- 6. What does God's redemption look like to you in this story? And in the story of your own life?

News from the farm:

Not much going on at the farm. Tim and I made a quick trip to Mexico to visit our daughter and her family this week. We had a lovely time. A good friend of ours watched the farm and our cats, and dogs, and goats, and cows, and chickens. I know they were thankful for his care, and so was I, but they all seemed happy to see us home, and we were happy to see them.

As we turned on our drive, we saw Bartholomew sitting high on top of a bale of hay, and his girls were down below. The cows were resting in the hay we left for them, and the chickens were comfortable in their pen. The cats and dogs were here and there but when they heard our voices they came running. They all seemed to find peace and joy knowing we were there.

It made me think of how we are with God, with Christ. We are comfortable in the care of friends and loved ones, but there is no comparison to the love and care we receive from our Lord.

As we begin our Lentin journey, I pray you find God's love and care.

Blessings,

Pastor Jennifer
