

Many of us are looking forward to coming out of this time of isolation, and returning to some sense of "normal." But, ministry doesn't stop when we are physically distanced from one another. Greg Alexander and Alex Ruth, the directors of Disciples Men are proud to announce a new curriculum to support ministry to and with men. The Jesus Way is the first installment of new curriculum offerings which support men as they walk with other men in a journey following in the way of Jesus. The curriculum is available now through the Jesus Way website, www.jesuswaymen.net. A pilot program is also available to a limited number of congregations with more information available at the website. If you are looking to start, or continue, a Men's ministry in your congregation (even during this time of isolation) Disciples Men has created a series of podcasts focusing on the foundational principles behind the Jesus Way, and how to use technology to support men's ministries.

In other news from Disciples Men, the General Conference of Disciples Men has made the difficult decision to cancel Sessions 2020 planned for this summer on the campus of TCU. However, all hope is not lost! The Sessions planning committee has already begun work planning Sessions 2020 in '21! The initial plan is to hold a one-day event directly before General Assembly in Louisville, KY. This event will feature many of the great presentations planned for this summer, and offer men the opportunity to build life-giving relationships with other men from across our denomination. Please be on the lookout for further information as plans are made, and be watching the Jesus Way website as Greg and Alex are planning a virtual presentation later this summer.
