

Stewardship Letter
27 September 2020
Exodus 17:1-7

Prayer

As we offer these gifts to you, O God, remind us that they are but gifts you have provided to us for our daily needs. Often we grumble, particularly in this time of Covid-19 that has brought us to a wilderness full of questions and concerns. Yet, you remain among us, faithful, and plentiful.

We remember those who heard your call to leave homes and comfort behind to journey to a land we now call Ghana. There they encountered hardships but in the Peki Valley you led them to water. Here your Word flourished as living water to those who came to seeking and asking to quench their thirst.

As we return our gifts, with thanksgiving, we also offer our prayers of thanks for those who continue to prepare new generations for ministry. May they bring the Word of living waters to the cities and villages of Ghana. Amen

Stewardship Moment

Water. It is a necessity for life. After many years of enduring disease and death, God led a small but faithful group of Christians to the Peki Valley. The valley afforded an abundant supply of fresh clean water for drinking and also plentiful rains for growing crops and fruit trees. So it was here, in 1864, they established the Evangelical Presbyterian Seminary.

One hundred and fifty-six years later that seminary continues to flourish in the greens hills of the Peki Valley and is led by succeeding generations of alumni/ae. The student population is made up of men and women from Ghana, Togo and Cote D' Ivoire. Although all classes and worship are held in English, around the campus and in many the songs can be heard French, Ewe, Twi and Ga. Each succeeding generation is given the preparation needed to serve cities and villages across these three countries and beyond as pastors, lay-leaders, and through the ministry of music.

Rev. Dr. Larry and Debbie Colvin are Global Ministries mission co-workers with the Evangelical Presbyterian Church, Ghana.